A FANTASY RESKIN OF THE CLASSIC HUNTER PLAYBOOKS

Hunters of the Shattered Coast

Fantasy Pirate Lord Playbooks for veteran heroes

No more monsters in the dark. One man rules the Shattered Coast from a black-sailed flagship, and every port, wreck and drowned bell tolls his name. Your company does not hunt beasts any more. You hunt him - his fleet, his spies, his cursed gold, and the weakness that can finally end him.

INSIDE

- 12 playbooks, fully converted to a fantasy world of ports, ships, swords and sorcery
- The shared basic moves, harm, luck and experience - on one reference page
- A Pirate Lord sheet for the Chronicler: his fleet, his motives, and the six-step Tide that turns if you fail
- A shared ship and crew sheet for the company's own vessel

BUILT FOR VETERANS

These sheets are written for heroes converted from a level 13 D&D campaign. Nobody here is a beginner. You start with extra moves, improvements already earned, famous deeds, old scars and debts - see Converting Your Level 13 Hero on page 3 before you pick a single rating.

You will need: two six-sided dice, pencils, and a table ready to scheme. Print one playbook per player, double-sided if you like - each is a single self-contained page.

How to use this pack: each player takes one playbook (pages 6-17) and the conversion page (page 3). The Chronicler - the keeper of the story - takes pages 2, 4, 5 and 18. Everything modern in the original game has been left on the dock: no guns, no cars, no telephones. Blades, bows, boats and bells only.

START HERE

The hunt has changed: one Pirate Lord, not a monster a week

The shape of the game is the same - hunters follow clues, protect the innocent, and strike when they know their quarry's weakness. What has changed is the quarry: one great enemy, and every voyage peels back another layer of his power.

It was	It is now	What it means at the table
The monster	The Pirate Lord	One recurring villain with a name, a flagship, a motive and a hidden weakness. He learns from every clash, just as you do.
Minions	His fleet and cutthroats	Captains, boarding crews, bribed harbourmasters, cultists of the drowned god, and the creatures his cursed gold has bought.
A mystery	A voyage	Each session is one leg of the chase: a raided port, a vanished tribute ship, a chart that should not exist.
The Keeper	The Chronicler	The storyteller role. The Chronicler plays the Pirate Lord, his fleet, and every soul in every port.
Bystanders	Port folk	Fisherfolk, merchants, lighthouse keepers, tavern keepers, pressed sailors - the people caught between you and him.
Locations	Ports, isles and wrecks	Every place flies someone's flag. Note whose, and what it would cost them if the Pirate Lord came.
The countdown	The Tide	Six steps of doom (page 5). Each time the company dawdles or fails, the Tide advances one step toward his triumph.
Guns, cars, phones	Blades, ships, ravens	Word travels at the speed of sail and horse. A warning sent by raven can be shot down. A getaway needs a tide, not a key.

THE SHAPE OF A VOYAGE

1. Word reaches port. A survivor, a wreck, a ransom note nailed to the harbourmaster's door. The company investigates: questioning port folk, reading the signs, following the trail.

2. The trail narrows. Clues name one of his captains, one of his havens, or one piece of his plan. Expect ambushes, bargains and betrayals on the way.

3. The strike. Armed with his weakness - a name, a relic, a tide-table, a mutinous first mate - the company strikes. Without the weakness, he slips away laughing, and the Tide turns.

4. The reckoning. Wounds are bound, tales are told, and the Pirate Lord answers: a port burned, a price raised on your heads, a friend taken.

> His weakness is the campaign. The Pirate Lord cannot simply be out-fought - fleets have tried. Somewhere in the Shattered Coast lies the one thing that can end him: the bell that can ring his true name, the admiral he betrayed, the curse that keeps him breathing. Every voyage should reveal, test or protect one piece of it.

Sea beasts and drowned things still sail here - under his flag, or in his wake. Ask whose colours they fly.

FOR HEROES CONVERTED FROM D&D, LEVEL 13

Converting your level 13 hero: bring the legend, not the stat block

Convert the fiction, not the numbers. A level 13 hero has a decade of deeds behind them; these sheets capture who they are and what they are famed for, and the veteran start below makes sure they arrive feeling that powerful.

PICK YOUR PLAYBOOK BY STORY

D&D hero	Playbook
Fighter, champion, battle master	The Foretold or The Bereaved
Paladin, cleric of a sea or sky god	The Blessed
Rogue, swashbuckler, thief	The Cutpurse
Wizard, sage, artificer-scholar	The Lorekeeper or Battle-Mage
Warlock, sorcerer with a dark gift	The Touched or The Cursed
Ranger, druid, outlander scout	The Chart-Reader or The Sworn
Bard, noble, guild agent	The Quartermaster or The Commoner
Barbarian, lycanthrope, the changed	The Cursed or The Bereaved
No powers at all - and still here	The Commoner (and proud of it)

THE VETERAN START - EVERYONE TAKES ALL OF THIS

- Ratings: pick a line on your playbook, then raise any two ratings by +1 (no rating above +3). Level 13 heroes are good at what they do.
- Extra moves: take your playbook's starting moves, plus two more moves from its list.
- Improvements: take three improvements now. One of them may be an advanced improvement (page 18) - including a move borrowed from another playbook, if it fits your story.
- Luck: start with 6 of 7 luck. You already burned one, long ago, surviving the thing that made you famous.
- A scar, a famed deed, an old debt: invent one of each - a limp or a hand that shakes near bells; a deed the ports still sing about; a debt someone can collect. Write them on your sheet.

WHAT CARRIES OVER FROM YOUR OLD CHARACTER

- One signature treasure. Your best magic item crosses over, translated into tags. A flaming greatsword might be 2-harm hand messy fire; boots of elvenkind become quiet, +1 to sneak. The Chronicler agrees the tags; the item keeps its name and history.
- Your spellcasting style. Keep how your magic looks and what it costs you. The moves define the effect - you define the flavour.
- One ally and one enemy. Name a henchman, mentor, lover or contact who still aids you - and one surviving foe. Your old enemy now sails with the Pirate Lord. He made them an offer.
- Shared history, doubled. When you reach the History section on your playbook, pick two entries for each other hunter, not one. This company has bled together for years.
- Wealth and standing. You are not rich - the hunt eats gold - but you are known. Ports open gates for your names, and his spies report your movements.

> What does not cross over: hit points, armour class, spell slots and saving throws stay in the old world. If your hero could fly, teleport or raise the dead every morning, that power is now rare, costly and story-shaped - agree with the Chronicler what it looks like as a move before the first voyage.

SHARED REFERENCE - EVERY HUNTER USES THESE

Basic moves

Roll two six-sided dice and add the rating named. 10+ is a clean success. 7-9 succeeds at a cost, a compromise or an ugly choice. 6 or less is a miss: mark experience, and the Chronicler makes a hard move. Ratings: Charm (grace and guile), Cool (nerve under fire), Sharp (wits and eyes), Tough (strength and steel), Weird (magic and the uncanny).

Persuade Someone (+Charm). Talk a person into something with a promise, a threat, a lie or a song. On 10+ they do it if you keep your word; on 7-9 they want proof or payment first. Against fellow hunters, 10+ gives them experience to agree and +1 forward if they do.

Keep Your Nerve (+Cool). Act under pressure: swing across on a burning rope, hold a door against boarders, lie to his harbourmaster. On 10+ you do it; on 7-9 the Chronicler offers a worse outcome, a hard bargain or an ugly choice.

Lend Aid (+Cool). Help another hunter. On 10+ they take +1 to their roll; on 7-9 they still do, but you share whatever goes wrong.

Search for Clues (+Sharp). Investigate a place, a wreck, a body, a ledger or a rumour. On 10+ ask the Chronicler two questions from the list; on 7-9 ask one, but the search costs time, draws eyes or leaves a trace. What happened here? What is being hidden? What is not what it seems? Where did they go? What can hurt or stop it? What was it guarding?

Read the Room (+Sharp). Size up a tense moment - a tavern, a parley, a deck before the board. On 10+ ask three questions; on 7-9 ask one. Who is really in command? Who wants to run? What is my best way in or out? Who is most vulnerable? What should I watch for? Acting on an answer gives +1.

Fight (+Tough). Trade harm in a brawl, a duel or a boarding action. On 10+ deal your weapon's harm and take less in return, or deal +1 harm; on 7-9 you deal harm and take theirs in full. On a miss, you are in their hands.

Guard Another (+Tough). Shield a person, a place or your ship. On 10+ hold 3; on 7-9 hold 1. Spend hold to suffer the harm instead, keep your charge from harm once, or draw the enemy onto you.

Work Sorcery (+Weird). Cast, pray, curse or commune. Choose an effect: harm at a distance, heal, bar a place against a named foe, scry a person or place, dispel a curse, summon aid, or bind a spirit. On 10+ it works cleanly; on 7-9 it works, but choose a glitch: it draws attention, it is temporary, it costs you, or it works too well.

HARM, LUCK AND EXPERIENCE

Harm. You have 7 harm boxes. Armour reduces harm taken. At 4 or more harm you are unstable: wounds worsen without care. Healing comes from rest, chirurgeons, shrines and sorcery - rarely in the middle of a fight.

Luck. Spend a luck point to turn a miss into a 12, as if fate itself stepped in - or to shrug off all the harm from one blow. When your luck runs out, the sea collects: expect the worst, at the worst moment.

Experience. Mark experience on every miss, and when a move or your history says so. Fill 5 boxes to level up: erase them and choose an improvement from your playbook.

FOR THE CHRONICLER'S EYES

The Pirate Lord

NAME AND INFAMY

FLAGSHIP AND HER TELL-TALE SIGN

WHAT HE WANTS (PICK ONE)

- ☐ The Sunken Crown - a drowned relic that would make him king of every tide
- ☐ Revenge - on the admiral, the court or the lover who betrayed him
- ☐ A throne of fear - every port paying tribute, forever
- ☐ To break his curse - he cannot die, cannot age, and cannot leave the sea
- ☐ Plunder beyond dreams - one last fleet, one last harbour, then legend

HIS WEAKNESS (PICK ONE, HIDE IT WELL)

- ☐ The harbour bell cast from his first ship - rung at dawn, it speaks his true name
- ☐ The first mate he marooned, alive, who knows every haven and signal
- ☐ His heart, cut out and hidden in a coffer on a charted-nowhere isle
- ☐ The pact itself - a written contract with the drowned god, burnable
- ☐ He cannot set foot on consecrated ground, nor cross a line of salt and ash

THE TIDE - IF THE COMPANY FAILS

Advance one step each time a voyage is abandoned, a deadline passes, or a miss demands it. Write your own steps to fit your Lord; these are the shape of them.

- Daylight: his sails are sighted off a friendly port
- Shadows: a haven is raided; a friend's ship goes missing
- Dusk: a port pays tribute or burns; his spy sits in your council
- Sunset: his fleet blockades the company's home harbour
- Darkness: the relic is raised / the betrayal lands / the curse breaks his way
- Midnight: he is crowned Lord of the Shattered Coast - and turns inland

HIS FLEET (NAME THEM, GIVE EACH A WANT)

Captain / threat	Kind	Wants

Kinds: boarding crew (harm in numbers), hired blades, bribed officials, sea cultists, cursed drowned crew, a rival captain with her own ambitions, the thing in the fog that answers his whistle.

Running him: he is never where the company first looks, he always leaves a witness alive to carry the tale, and he offers each hunter, once, exactly what they most want - at a price. Track his harm like a hunter's, but he only dies when his weakness is used against him. Any other defeat costs him a ship, a captain or a season - and teaches him your names.

The Foretold

Your birth was sung in prophecy. You alone can end the Pirate Lord - and if you fall, the Coast falls with you.

NAME

LOOK - PICK ONE FROM EACH LIST

Weathered / youthful / haunted / regal face | Blazing, sorrowful, starry, unblinking eyes | Pilgrim's garb, admiral's coat, salt-stained finery, humble robes

ARMOUR / FAMED DEED / OLD DEBT

MOVES - YOU GET BOTH MARKED, PLUS PICK TWO

- ☐ Plaything of Fate. At the start of each voyage, roll +Weird. On 10+ the Chronicler reveals a true, useful detail of what is coming. On 7-9, a vague omen. On a miss, something ill is coming - for you.
- ☐ Here for a Reason. Name the deed fate demands of you, agreed with the Chronicler. While you pursue it, you cannot die: the worst fate deals you is capture, ruin or a terrible wound. Once it is done, this protection ends.
- ☐ The Grand Entrance. Arrive in a scene at the perfect moment and all eyes turn to you: take +1 forward, and one enemy's attention is yours alone.
- ☐ Devastating. When you fight, you may deal +1 harm, and your blows smash through doors, shields and rigging alike.
- ☐ Unbowed. You suffer 1 less harm from any blow, and pain never stops you finishing what you started.
- ☐ Dutiful Heart. When port folk or crew look to you for hope, roll +Charm to steady them: on a hit, they hold fast and aid you; on 10+, one joins your cause outright.

YOUR FATE & FATED WEAPON

How fate found you (pick one): nightmares and visions; a mad prophet named you; an ancient order raised you in secret; the Pirate Lord himself came for you as a child; the drowned bell rang your name.

Build your fated weapon: form (pick 1) - staff (1-harm hand/close), haft (2-harm hand heavy), grip-and-blade (1-harm hand balanced), chain (1-harm hand area). Add three edges: long, heavy, magic, silver, fire, holy, far-reaching, quick. Choose a material: star-iron, drowned gold, dragon bone, living coral.

Gear: protective garb worth 1-armour, if you wish, plus your fated weapon.

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

Close kin - say exactly how. / Fated to be your mentor - say how you know. / They will betray you, says the prophecy - do they know? / You saved them at the cost fate demanded - say what it cost. / They stand between you and your doom.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Charm (max +3) ☐ +1 Tough (max +3)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Weird (max +2)
☐ Another Foretold move ☐ Gain a company of sworn followers

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

HEAT - WHO IS AFTER YOU, AND WHY

MOVES - PICK THREE

- ☐ Found Property. You "found" a magical trinket and kept it (pick one): a warding amulet (1-armour, magic, recharges at dawn), a lucky charm (spend it as one luck point, once), a stolen spellbook (+1 forward to work sorcery when studied), a skeleton key (opens any lock, even sealed by sorcery), a whispering imp-stone (answers one yes/no question a day, lies when bored).
- ☐ Dockside Bully. Use Tough instead of Charm to persuade someone when your persuasion is a threat.
- ☐ Second Story. When you break into a guarded place, roll +Sharp. On 10+ pick three, on 7-9 pick two: no alarm raised, no trace left, you are in and out in moments, you find something extra worth stealing.
- ☐ Friends in Low Places. Name a fence, smuggler or gaoler in any port. Once per voyage, they owe you: goods, gossip, a hidden berth or a blind eye.
- ☐ Slippery. When pursuers close in, roll +Cool: on a hit you are simply gone; on 7-9 you leave something - or someone - behind.
- ☐ Crew Boss. You run a small gang of dockside lads and lasses (name them) who fetch, carry, watch and lie for you - badly paid, fiercely loyal, easily frightened.

YOUR OLD TRADE (PICK ONE)

Smuggler of cursed cargo. / Harbour thief and lock-picker. / Press-gang runner who sold sailors to ships - including, once, his. / Forger of charts and letters of marque. / Fence for the Pirate Lord's own loot, until you saw whose it was.

GEAR - PICK THREE

☐ Boarding axe (2-harm hand messy) ☐ Hand crossbow (2-harm close reload quiet)
☐ Short bow (2-harm close/far quiet) ☐ Rapier (2-harm hand precise)
☐ Throwing knives (1-harm close many) ☐ Armoured coat (1-armour hidden)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

You stole something precious from them - do they know? / They sprang you from the gaol - what did you promise? / You sold them out once, cheap. They forgave you. Mostly. / They are your only honest friend. / You owe the Pirate Lord's fence a fortune, together.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Sharp (max +3) ☐ +1 Charm (max +3)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Tough (max +2)
☐ Another Cutpurse move ☐ A safehouse in every major port

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

The Blessed

I am the light and the sword, sent by the powers above to defend the meek. All darkness fears me, for I am its end.

YOUR PATRON POWER / YOUR MISSION

MOVES - PICK THREE

- ☐ Voice from Above. At the start of each voyage, roll +Weird. On 10+ your patrons set you a simple task and you may ask one Search for Clues question freely. On 7-9 the task is hard. On a miss, the task is terrible. Refuse or fail it, and this move sleeps until you atone.
- ☐ Soothe. Speak softly for a few breaths and calm panic, rage or terror in anyone who can hear you - though what frightened them has not gone away.
- ☐ Lay On Hands. Your touch closes wounds and lifts sickness. Lay hands and roll +Weird: on 10+ heal 2 harm or a disease; on 7-9 heal 1 and take the pain's echo yourself; on a miss the affliction turns its face to you.
- ☐ Smite the Wicked. Your weapon counts as holy, and deals +1 harm to the cursed, the undead and those who have sworn to the drowned god.
- ☐ Cast Out. Present your holy symbol and command an unclean spirit, curse or haunting to depart. Roll +Weird: on a hit it obeys for now; on 10+ it is banished entirely.
- ☐ Never Falter. When terror, pain or sorcery would stop you, roll +Cool: on a hit, you carry on untouched in spirit; your body may still pay.

YOUR MISSION (PICK ONE)

End the Pirate Lord's patron - the thing beneath the waves that feeds him. / Carry the harbour bell to the isle where it must be rung. / Redeem him: he was once of your order. / Guard one hunter in this company, though they must never know why. / Rebuild the drowned shrine in every port he has burned.

GEAR - PICK TWO, PLUS A HOLY SYMBOL

☐ Longsword (2-harm hand messy) ☐ War hammer (2-harm hand heavy holy)
☐ Spear (2-harm hand/close) ☐ Mail shirt (1-armour)
☐ Shield (1-armour, carried) ☐ Blessed blade (2-harm hand holy silver)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

Your patron marked them as significant - say how. / You healed them when no one else could - or would. / They doubt the gods, loudly, in your hearing. / You fought side by side against the drowned dead. / They carry a darkness your order would burn out.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Tough (max +3) ☐ +1 Weird (max +3)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Charm (max +2)
☐ Another Blessed move ☐ A shrine and sanctuary of your own

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

YOUR HAVEN - NAME AND PLACE

MOVES - PICK TWO

- ☐ Read About This. Roll +Sharp instead of +Cool to keep your nerve when the danger is something you have studied - which is most dangers.
- ☐ Often Right. When a hunter asks your counsel and follows it, they take +1 ongoing while they follow it, and you mark experience.
- ☐ Prepared Mind. When you search for clues, on a miss you may instead recall one relevant fact from your studies - true, but incomplete.
- ☐ The Weakness. You are the company's living index of the Pirate Lord's lore. Once per voyage, name a fact about him, his fleet or his curse that you "remember reading": the Chronicler makes it true, with one sting in it.
- ☐ Dark Past. You once served, studied under, or sailed with the enemy. Name how. It gives you +1 to read his captains and havens - and gives the Chronicler a hold to make it cost you.
- ☐ Field Chirurgeon. With your kit and a quiet hour, treat a hunter's wounds: roll +Sharp to heal 1 harm, or stabilise the dying without sorcery.

YOUR HAVEN - PICK THREE

☐ Chart room: +1 forward to search for clues about voyages and places. ☐ Forbidden library: +1 forward to work sorcery prepared from its tomes. ☐ Workshop: tools to mend, forge and tinker. ☐ Healing ward: beds and herbs; the wounded recover here. ☐ Hidden cove: your ship berths unseen. ☐ Watchful servants / old crew. ☐ Warded vault for cursed things.

GEAR - PICK THREE HUNTER'S TOOLS

☐ Silver dagger (2-harm hand silver) ☐ Cold-iron blade (2-harm hand iron)
☐ Blessed knife (2-harm hand holy) ☐ Crossbow (2-harm close/far reload)
☐ Sun-oil flasks (2-harm close fire) ☐ Staff of rowan (1-harm hand warding)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

They came to you broken by a curse; you lifted it - mostly. / You taught them to read the old charts. / They stole a book from your library and never returned it. / You have studied their bloodline. They do not know what you found. / They guard your haven when you sail.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Sharp (max +3) ☐ +1 Weird (max +3)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Charm (max +2)
☐ Another Lorekeeper move ☐ Add two options to your haven

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

YOUR GRAND THEORY - WRITE IT, HOWEVER MAD

MOVES - PICK THREE

- ☐ Connect the Wrecks. At the start of each voyage, study the pattern behind events and roll +Sharp. On 10+ hold 3, on 7-9 hold 1. Spend hold to ask the Chronicler: Is this person tied to his fleet? Where will he strike next? What is this clue really part of? Who aboard can be turned?
- ☐ Suspicious Mind. When port folk lie to you - harbourmasters, merchants, smiling officials - you always know. Not why. But you know.
- ☐ The Missing Piece. When you search for clues and get to ask a question, you may also ask: What here does not belong? The answer is always worth the asking.
- ☐ See It Coming. You have a sailor's sense for ambush. When his cutthroats spring a trap on the company, roll +Sharp: on a hit you shout a warning in time - everyone takes +1 forward; on 10+ you spotted it early enough to turn the trap on them.
- ☐ Against All Sense. Once per voyage, declare a wild theory about the Pirate Lord's plan. If the table laughs, mark experience. If it proves true, take +1 forward every time it saves the company.
- ☐ Sneaky. When you slip somewhere unseen - a flagship's cabin, a smuggler's hold - roll +Cool instead of the rating called for.

GEAR - ONE HONEST WEAPON, TWO HIDDEN ONES

☐ Crossbow (2-harm close/far reload) ☐ Long bow (2-harm far quiet)
☐ War bow (3-harm far loud-of-creak) ☐ Short sword (2-harm hand)
Hidden (pick two): ☐ Boot dagger ☐ Sleeve knife ☐ Garrotte ☐ Poisoned needle (quiet, slow)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

They are tied into it all - you have a chart proving it. Show them? / They humoured your theory once, in front of the wrong people. / You warned them about a wreck and they did not listen. / They are the only one who reads your charts without laughing. / You saw their name in his cipher. You have not told them. Yet.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Sharp (max +3) ☐ +1 Weird (max +2)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Charm (max +2)
☐ Another Chart-Reader move ☐ A network of informants in the ports

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

YOUR ORDER - NAME, SIGIL, STRONGHOLD

MOVES - YOU GET THE FIRST, PLUS PICK THREE

- ☐ In Good Standing. If your order favours you, at the start of each voyage roll +Charm. On 10+ they send useful word or aid. On 7-9 they set you a task within the voyage - do it, and the aid follows. On a miss, you are in disgrace: no aid, and word travels.
- ☐ Mentor. Name your mentor in the order. Send word by raven and roll +Sharp: on 10+ a full, true answer returns in time. On 7-9 choose: the answer is slow, or you owe the order a favour. On a miss, your question stirs trouble.
- ☐ Apprentice. Name your apprentice (a bystander the Chronicler plays). Eager, promising, and always exactly where the danger is worst. When they aid you, take +1 forward.
- ☐ Ancient Fighting Arts. Your order's training turns your hands and any simple weapon into a hunter's tools (2-harm hand), and you take +1 to guard another.
- ☐ Sanctuary. The order's houses, shrines and lighthouse chapels open to the company in any port - beds, healing and silence, unless you are in disgrace.
- ☐ Forbidden Knowledge. Your order keeps lore it does not share. Once per voyage, ask the Chronicler one question about the Pirate Lord or the drowned god. The answer is true - and asking marks you.

YOUR ORDER - PICK TWO STRENGTHS, ONE FLAW

Strengths: fighting monks of the harbour shrines; keepers of the forbidden charts; wealthy and well-armed; beloved by port folk; spies in every fleet. Flaws: hidebound and slow; riddled with his gold; sworn to secrets that endanger you; the order is dying, and knows it.

GEAR - PICK THREE

☐ Order blade (2-harm hand, sigil-marked) ☐ Trident (2-harm hand/close)
☐ Long bow (2-harm far) ☐ Reinforced garb (1-armour)
☐ Silver chain (1-harm hand area silver) ☐ Old war banner (+1 to steady allies)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

Your order sheltered them when the fleet came hunting. / They refused the order's oath, to your face. / You trained together as novices, once. / The order has marked them for watching - say why you have not reported them. / They saved your apprentice's life.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Tough (max +3) ☐ +1 Charm (max +3)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Sharp (max +2)
☐ Another Sworn move ☐ Rise in your order's ranks

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

The Cursed

Half of me belongs to the deep. I fight every day to spend it on the right side - his side is the other one.

YOUR CURSE - AND HOW HE COULD CALL IT HOME

YOUR NATURE - THEN MOVES, PICK TWO

Your kind (pick one): drowned-and-returned; child of a sea hag; were-shark or selkie-kin; living figurehead, carved and woken; heir of the drowned god's bloodline. Were you born to it, or made? And were you always fighting to be good - or did you change sides?

- ☐ Undying. You do not age or sicken, and every harm you suffer is reduced by 1. Salt water knits you; fresh water burns.
- ☐ Unnatural Allure. Roll +Weird instead of +Charm to persuade - your voice carries the tide in it.
- ☐ Natural Weapons (pick one more each time). Claws and teeth (2-harm hand messy); a crushing grip (2-harm hand, grapples); a drowning song (close, area, victims must keep their nerve or walk to you); spines or a stinging tail (2-harm hand, poison).
- ☐ Unholy Speed. You move like the tide coming in: cross any deck, cliff or rigging in a breath, and take +1 when you keep your nerve to escape.
- ☐ Speak with the Deep. Drowned things, sea beasts and cursed crews will parley with you - as kin. What they ask in return is the hard part.
- ☐ The Hunger. Name what your nature craves. When you deny it, take +1 forward. When you feed, heal 2 harm - and the Chronicler holds 1 to make the feeding matter later.

GEAR - ONE SAILOR'S WEAPON, IF YOU WISH

☐ Cutlass (2-harm hand) ☐ Hand crossbow (2-harm close reload)
☐ Great knife (1-harm hand) ☐ Harpoon (2-harm close, barbed)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

You lost control once and nearly killed them - how did they stop you? / They tried to end you, and you proved your heart - what convinced them? / You saved them from another of your kind. / You are bound to them by an old sea-oath. / The Pirate Lord offered you a place. They know. Nobody else does.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Weird (max +3) ☐ +1 Tough (max +3)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Charm (max +2)
☐ Another Cursed move ☐ Another natural weapon

YOUR TRADE, AND THE FOLK WAITING AT HOME

MOVES - PICK THREE

- ☐ Always the One in Trouble. When another hunter guards you, they mark experience. Whenever his crew captures you, you mark experience. It happens a lot. You have made a talent of it.
- ☐ Oops. Tell the Chronicler you want to stumble onto something important. You will find something genuinely useful - though not always for the problem in front of you.
- ☐ The Face Folk Trust. Sailors, servants and port folk talk to you as one of their own. Take +1 to persuade port folk, and they never take you for a spy, a tax collector or a hero.
- ☐ What Would a Hero Do? When you copy something you have seen a companion do - a spell's words, a duelist's trick, a captain's bluff - roll +Cool. On a hit, it works, once, gloriously. On 7-9, it works with a twist nobody wanted.
- ☐ Heart of the Hearth. A hot meal, a dry bed and a listening ear, provided by you, heals 1 harm for the whole company and clears one frightened or shaken condition. Needs an hour and a fire.
- ☐ Slippery When Ordinary. Curses, scrying and curse-senses slide off you: the Pirate Lord's sorcery cannot find you unless you make yourself remarkable.

GEAR - TWO EVERYDAY WEAPONS, AND TRANSPORT

☐ Ship's gaff or boat hook (2-harm hand, reach) ☐ Kitchen cleaver (1-harm hand)
☐ Wood axe (2-harm hand heavy) ☐ Hunting bow (2-harm far)
☐ Heavy frypan (1-harm hand, a legend in its own right)
☐ Your mule and cart / fishing smack / sturdy rowboat

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

Close relations - say exactly how. / You keep their home, shop or tavern running between voyages. / They saved your life the first time the fleet came. / You nursed them back from the brink, with soup and stubbornness. / You are the reason they cannot retire, and they love you for it.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Charm (max +3) ☐ +1 Sharp (max +2)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Tough (max +2)

YOUR COMPANY / PATRON - AND ITS RED LINES

MOVES - YOU GET THE FIRST, PLUS PICK THREE

- ☐ Deal with the Company. When you request aid, gear or forgiveness from your patrons, roll +Sharp. On 10+ it is granted cleanly. On 7-9 it is granted - with conditions, delays or a witness attached. On a miss, they grant something else entirely, and note your failure.
- ☐ Bottle It Up. Take up to +3 on a keep-your-nerve roll, whenever you choose. For each +1 taken, the Chronicler holds 1, spendable later to give you -1 at the worst professional moment - a superior watching, a patron's cargo at risk.
- ☐ Requisition. Once per voyage, draw on Company stores: fine weapons, charts, letters of credit, a fast courier boat or a squad of marines for one scene. Someone senior reviews the cost afterwards.
- ☐ Unfazeable. Take +1 to keep your nerve, always. Boarding actions, burning ships and angry admirals are, professionally, Tuesdays.
- ☐ Company Surgeon. Your field kit and training stabilise any wounded hunter and heal 1 harm with ten quiet minutes. In your patrons' infirmaries, double it.
- ☐ Leave No One Behind. When you guard another, you may spend hold to carry them clear of danger entirely - out of the fight, off the ship, beyond pursuit.

YOUR PATRONS (PICK ONE)

The Crown's Admiralty, hunting him for pride and prize-money. / A merchant guild whose tribute fleets he bleeds. / An insurance brotherhood tired of paying for his wrecks. / A temple fleet sworn to sink his flagship. Their aid is real. So is their ledger: every favour is written down, and red lines (pick two with the Chronicler) may never be crossed.

GEAR - PICK THREE, COMPANY-ISSUE

☐ Fine cutlass (2-harm hand, balanced) ☐ Heavy crossbow (3-harm far reload slow)
☐ Breastplate (2-armour, Company-marked) ☐ Pike (2-harm hand/close)
☐ Signal flags and spyglass ☐ Surgeon's kit and strong spirits

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

The Company assigned you to watch them - say whether you still file reports. / They saved a Company ship you were sworn to lose. / You recruited them, and vouched for them with your name. / They owe the Company a debt you quietly keep rescheduling. / You served together before the Company bought your swords.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Cool (max +3) ☐ +1 Sharp (max +2)
☐ +1 Tough (max +2) ☐ +1 Charm (max +2)
☐ Another Quartermaster move ☐ Promotion - and a patron's ear

TOOLS AND TECHNIQUES YOUR MAGIC NEEDS (PICK THREE)

COMBAT MAGIC - AND MOVES, PICK THREE

Your war-spells are weapons: combine a base with an effect. Bases: blast (2-harm close magic), bolt (2-harm far magic), ball (2-harm close area magic), wall of force or flame (1-harm close area warding). Effects: fire, lightning, frost, wind, entangle. When you fight with them, roll +Weird instead of +Tough; the Chronicler may make you keep your nerve first when casting under fire.

- ☐ Trained for War. With two of your three tools ready, you may ignore the third when you work sorcery.
- ☐ Arcane Reputation. Name three powers of the Coast - a temple fleet, a smugglers' court, a drowned crew that still parleys. They know your name and respect it: take +1 to persuade them, and they will ask your aid before your enemies'.
- ☐ Shield of Sorcery. Hold a ward around yourself: 1-armour, magic. While it holds, you cannot be surprised by sorcery.
- ☐ Counterspell. When enemy magic is loosed nearby, roll +Weird: on 10+ it shatters harmlessly; on 7-9 it shatters, and so does your composure - take -1 forward.
- ☐ The Third Eye. You see magic, curses and the drowned as clearly as rigging. Ask the Chronicler freely: What sorcery is at work here, and whose is it?

TOOLS AND TECHNIQUES (PICK THREE)

Precise gestures. / Words of power, spoken aloud. / A focus - staff, wand, orb or blade. / Powders, salts and sea-charms (consumed). / Stillness: you must plant your feet and breathe. / Blood or pain, a drop at a time. Missing a needed tool makes casting ugly; missing two makes it reckless.

GEAR - PICK ONE BACKUP

☐ Heirloom sword (2-harm hand messy) ☐ Ritual dagger (1-harm hand)
☐ Old ship's pistol-crossbow (2-harm close reload) ☐ Ward-stone (1-armour, once per voyage)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

You dueled beside them against his weather-witch. / They carried you out when a spell went wrong - what did it cost them? / You taught them one small, true magic. / They distrust sorcery since the fleet's curses - say what you do about it. / Your master died hunting him. They were there.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Weird (max +3) ☐ +1 Cool (max +2)
☐ +1 Sharp (max +2) ☐ +1 Tough (max +2)
☐ Another Battle-Mage move ☐ A new war-spell base or effect

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

YOUR DARK SIDE - TAGS THE CHRONICLER MAY CALL ON

MOVES - PICK THREE

- ☐ Mind to Mind. Read another's thoughts and place words in their mind. You may search for clues, read a room or persuade without speaking a word - though folk notice the wrongness of it afterwards.
- ☐ Tune In to the Deep. Open your mind to one of his captains, creatures or cursed crew and roll +Weird. On 10+ hold 3, on 7-9 hold 1; on a miss, it knows you are listening. Spend hold to ask: Where is it? What does it most fear or want? Who will it strike next? What is it hiding?
- ☐ Hex. When you work sorcery on a foe, you may also lay one hex: they stumble at the worst moment, their weapon fails once, or ill luck dogs their next roll (-1 forward).
- ☐ Premonitions. At the start of each voyage, roll +Weird: on a hit, a flash of the voyage's worst moment - the Chronicler shows you the image, not the meaning. On 10+, take +1 forward when it arrives, ready for it.
- ☐ Sight Beyond Sight. See the drowned, the cursed and things hidden by sorcery, always. It means they can see you, too.
- ☐ Hush. Still a room: bells muffle, voices die, oars make no splash. While you concentrate, the company moves in sorcerous silence.

YOUR DARK SIDE (PICK THREE TAGS)

Voices from below. / The tide calls you home. / Rage like a squall. / Visions you cannot unsee. / Hunger for drowned gold. / Cold hands, cold heart. / Something rides you in dreams. The Chronicler invokes a tag when your gift is used: you must indulge it, or mark harm as it tears at you.

GEAR - PICK TWO

☐ Silver needle-knives (1-harm hand silver, many) ☐ Driftwood staff (1-harm hand warding)
☐ Short bow (2-harm close/far) ☐ A charm against your own gift (it aches - that is how you know it works)

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

You read their mind once, uninvited - and kept what you found. / They pulled you from the sea when the gift first took you. / Your voices name them, nightly, by a name they do not use. / They alone know what the price will be. / You warned them of a death. It came for someone else.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Weird (max +3) ☐ +1 Charm (max +2)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Sharp (max +2)
☐ Another Touched move ☐ Shed one dark-side tag - at a price

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt.

WHO YOU LOST - NAMES, AND THE DAY

MOVES - YOU GET THE FIRST, PLUS PICK TWO

- ☐ I Know My Prey. Take +1 ongoing whenever you knowingly investigate, pursue or fight the Pirate Lord's own - his captains, his crews, his cursed servants: the ones who did it, or their kind.
- ☐ Berserk. No amount of harm stops you before the current fight ends. The Chronicler may not use harm moves to take you out of a fight you have chosen.
- ☐ What Cannot Be Taken. When his people threaten what you have left - this company, this ship, one named soul - take +2 to guard them, and mark experience when you bleed doing it.
- ☐ Relentless. When the trail goes cold, roll +Sharp: on a hit you find the thread again - a survivor, a wreck, a loose tongue. On 7-9 it costs you a night, a fortune or a friend's patience.
- ☐ Tool of Vengeance. Your signature weapon deals +1 harm to his captains and creatures - and you cannot be disarmed of it while vengeance is unfinished. Neither can you set it down. Ever.
- ☐ Fury Sworn. Name the oath you swore over the graves. While you keep it, take +1 to keep your nerve against fear and sorcery. Break it, and lose 1 luck to the sea.

GEAR - ONE SIGNATURE WEAPON, TWO PRACTICAL

Signature (pick one): a great boarding axe (3-harm hand heavy messy); the harbour bell-hammer (3-harm hand heavy holy); a matched pair of cutlasses (2-harm hand, +1 when both are drawn); a harpoon gun of your own making (3-harm far reload barbed). Practical (pick two): cutlass (2-harm hand); heavy crossbow (3-harm far reload); boarding pike (2-harm hand/close); mourning armour (1-armour). Your mount or boat: a black-sailed skiff, a warhorse that fears nothing.

HISTORY - PICK FOR EACH HUNTER (VETERANS PICK TWO)

They were there the day it happened - ask what they remember that you cannot. / They pulled you from the wreckage, or the bottle. / You have sworn to protect them as you could not protect yours. / They counsel mercy, and you are trying to hear them. / They lost people to him too - different names, same graves.

IMPROVEMENTS

☐ +1 Tough (max +3) ☐ +1 Sharp (max +2)
☐ +1 Cool (max +2) ☐ +1 Weird (max +2)
☐ Another Bereaved move ☐ Name a second signature weapon

Veteran start (p.3): +1 to two ratings, two extra moves, three improvements (one may be advanced), luck starts at 6, plus a scar, a famed deed and an old debt. Your loss is years old now - and so is your training.

Track loosely, in marks: a full purse, a lean purse, or debts at the harbourmaster's. Prize money from his captured ships is real income - and every prize crew you sail home is a ship not hunting.

ADVANCED IMPROVEMENTS

Available once you have taken five ordinary improvements - and one is included in the veteran start (page 3). Pick from any playbook's list where noted, or:

☐ Raise any rating by +1 (max +3) ☐ Take a move from another playbook
☐ Take a second move from another playbook ☐ Gain a haven, a ship upgrade or a sworn ally
☐ Change to a new playbook - your legend turns a page ☐ Retire this hunter to safety, and bring in their heir, apprentice or old comrade
☐ Mark the Pirate Lord himself: you have learned one true thing about his weakness, permanently
